

Spiritual Newness

Celebrating 40 years and realising an impossible Dream

Sunday 25 January, 7.15-8.30pm
20 Polwarth Crescent
Edinburgh

The Brahma Kumaris World University (BKWSU) was founded by Brahma Baba in the 1930s. Inspired by a series of revelations, he dedicated his life to bringing his vision into reality. He saw a world where people of all cultural, socio-economic and religious backgrounds would come together to rediscover and develop the spiritual dimension of their lives.

From small beginnings in India, from one individual's powerful vision, the BKWSU has grown to flourish in nearly 120 countries. Based on respect and generosity, so prized and personified by Brahma Baba, we see the dream of a higher quality of life coming true despite the seeming chaos of current times.

An order is emerging, for many people are realising the importance of spiritual values and looking for a direction to follow. We just need eyes to see what these times are heralding and how soon.

One of Brahma Baba's revolutionary inspirations was recognising the importance of promoting women as spiritual leaders in a world that had forgotten how to interact with true love and happiness.

With music and audio visuals, join us in celebrating 40 years of tireless service to humanity and share in the wave of spiritual newness that is rising to face the challenge of violence and despondency.
